

<http://www.kirkusreviews.com>

THE PEACEFUL NURSERY

Preparing a Home for Your Baby with Feng Shui

Author: Carlin, Laura Forbes and Alison Forbes

Review Date: DECEMBER 01, 2005

Publisher: Delta

Price (paperback): $15.00

Publication Date: February 2006

ISBN (paperback): 0385338945

Classification: PARENTING

A physical and emotional how-to that helps parents create nurturing nurseries for their new additions.

Parents want their home to be as welcoming and comfortable as possible for their baby. Sisters Carlin and Forbes show readers how a nursery can provide not only an inviting space, but also peace of mind for parents and their newborns. Followers of feng shui believe that the home is an extension of the body, so it's particularly important for infants to enter the world with a balanced and peaceful space. Successful home and lifestyle consultants, the authors offer practical advice for storage, which will help clear away the clutter, even in the hectic first days of parenthood. They separate the room into specific areas for nursing, changing, sleeping and play, which keeps the space focused and organized. In addition to maintaining order, the authors claim that a feng shui friendly nursery will also help parents peacefully adjust to the changes that parenthood brings.

Complete with color illustrations and helpful diagrams, this is far more than a decorating book—it's a total blueprint for the most important room in a new parent's home.